

This application runs on ARCore, which is provided by Google LLC and governed by the Google Privacy Policy.

The developers of CrysX don't store any data collected to run ARCore. The developers have used Google's Unity SDK to bring molecular and crystal models to Augmented Reality.

The app doesn't require anyone to sign-in or submit any personal information.

The app can be downloaded from Google Play Store, and used right away.